Chief Justice Earl Warren
United States Supreme Court
Washington, D.C.

Mr. Chief Justice:

An article in Christian Economics of July 7, 1964 states that Norman Redlich was appointed an assistant counsel on the Warren Commission to investigate the assassination of former President Kennedy. According to the article"Redlich was among those who signed an appeal to the President for clemency for Wilkenson and Braden" "both identified as communists, were imprisoned for contempt of Congress in 1961."

Are these statements true? If true, how can you justify the appointment of Redlich to the Commission?

Sincerely,

Willard L. Osterheldt
